

Eight steps, and you are done.

Ten of you, one price, and everything they say kept for good.

Start an archive

1 Set it up

Two minutes on your phone. Their name, your name, done.

2 Send them their link

WhatsApp or email, straight from the portal, with the code they need once.

3 Invite the family

Up to ten of you. The sister in Perth, the cousin in London.

4 Turn notifications on

The one that decides everything. Without it nobody knows a memory arrived.

5 They answer, you react

A question reaches them each morning. Send a heart or a note back — they can reply.

6 Ask your own questions

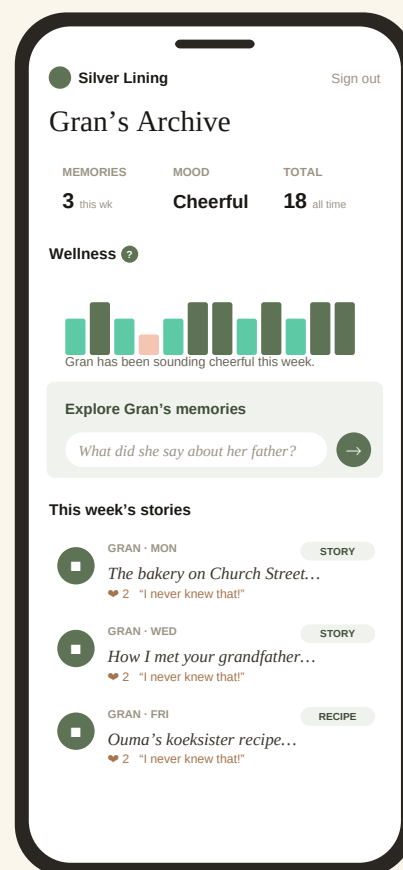

Typed, or recorded so they hear you ask it. It waits in their archive.

7 Browse by category

Stories, recipes, photographs, messages — filed as they arrive, filtered in a tap.

8 Ask the archive anything

"What did she say about her father?" It finds those moments and plays them back.

*The recordings are the point.
Everything else just makes sure somebody is listening.*